

Rep. Braley released a statement on President Obama's First 100 days in office.

Washington, DC - Rep. Bruce Braley (D-Iowa) today released the following statement on the 100th day after President Obama's swearing-in:

"President Obama is off to a strong start. Not only have his initiatives already begun to show positive results for middle class families squeezed by the bad economy, but the President has helped restore a sense of confidence to the American people. Through his actions, he has reminded Americans what is possible if we persevere and push through adversity. That's a sign of true leadership.

"Fortunately, the presidency lasts longer than 100 days. I have every confidence that President Obama will continue to show great leadership in the face of our many pressing problems."
